WROTE A POEM FOR HER FUNERAL.

Miss Lydia Louisa Ann Verr's Comforting Message to Friends Read at Her Obsequies.

SALISBURY, Sept. 12.—The last and steepest of Miss Lydia Louisa Ann Verr, the well-known prose and poetical writer, were conducted this afternoon. The funeral was held at 34 Federal st. Rev. John W. Hudson of Pembury read selections from the Scriptures, offered prayer and quoted numerous selections from poems written by Miss Verr. Rev. Samuel C. Deane of Newburyport delivered a tender eulogy and read the following poem written by Miss Verr and marked: "I leave this to be read at my funeral that those who loved me may be comforted by it":

Farewell, dear friends, who made my earth-life pleasant
With friendly greetings, and with cheering words,
Think of me now as part all pale and gleaming,
As if my earthly home were now no more.

Farewell—but as the friends we get tomorrow,
After a sleep not wake to sunshine bright,
No I have passed from pain, and care, and sorrow,
And entered into peace, and life, and light.

Where'er I go amid God's many mansions,
And all his world's willow-wooden wanders freight,
And the joy of loved ones' fond embraces—
I cannot reach a place where God is not!

And, thanks to Him, who from this earth-life's shadow
Has lifted up the veil that I must see;
And seeing, hearing, being full with the blessed,
Lead from earth's school, to His eternity.

Farewell! Yet not farewell! We meet tomorrow,
For what earth's fleeting years? 'Tis not a day—
That goes, how swiftly—with its pains and annoy,
Ere in the light of grand eternity.

Death is no sleep! Dread this not!
It cannot the weary be refused—
To bid the world, the grave forget,
For earth is a land of foes!

The burial was in the family lot in the old cemetery on Boston st. where also repose the remains of the woman's brothers, Rev. James Verr and Washington Verr, widely known as poets.
